I've been a very hardworking person since I was a little kid. My whole life I've worked alongside my father, taking care of sheep on our farm, showing them at agricultural fairs, and fitting and shearing them. From cutting eight cords of wood every year, to more recently building garages, putting up sheetrock in houses, and laying flooring. One could say my skill set is very diverse. I am also a very quick learner and always eager to succeed. I have had focused studies in computer technologies, including computer hardware, computer programming, networking and software applications for my entire high school career, and would love to pursue a career in graphic design.
